September Function

11 September 2006 (Mon)

System Integration Engineering and Enterprise Risk Management

You are cordially invited to attend our September function which will have two mini-talks integrated at your choice. Do come and enjoy the evening.

1. By Roger So, System Integration Manager of KCRC (6:30pm)

The Lok Ma Chau Spur Line has been progressing smoothly and is now in the final stage of commissioning with trains running from time to time. While those rolling stocks, permanent way and other infrastructures are readily noticeable, some of the interface hazards, for instance, electromagnetic interference (EMI), are often behind the scene of the glorious project progress.

The presentation will provide a case study on the identification and mitigation of an EMI hazard in the course of the LMC Spur Line project. Mr. Roger So, SIM, will be sharing with us his experience with the projects involved and key challenges that evening.

2. By Zoe Tse, Enterprise Risk Analyst of MTRCL (7:10pm)

To keep pace with the Corporation's vision of being a world-class enterprise growing in Hong Kong and beyond, MTRCL has adopted the Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) framework in late 2004 at the corporate level. The framework aims to enhance common understanding of the most important risks being taken by the business as a whole and how individual business areas can support the management of such risks. The framework is built on the Corporation's risk management systems and processes, focusing on risks with significant financial, safety, operational, political, reputation or legal consequences.

The presentation aims to introduce the progressive and evolving journey MTRCL has taken to develop the current risk management strategy, the main characteristics and of the ERM framework, and its development and implementation experience.
